Paid Sick Leave for Federal Contractors is Here: DOL Announces Final Rule

On September 29, 2016, the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL) announced publication of the final rule implementing the paid sick leave executive order that applies to federal contractors. Executive Order (EO) 13706, Establishing Paid Sick Leave for Federal Contractors requires certain federal contractors to provide their employees up to seven days of paid sick leave per year.

The final rule permits employees to take paid sick leave for absences resulting from:

i. a “physical or mental illness, injury, or medical condition”;

ii. “obtaining diagnosis, care, or preventive care from a health care provider”;

iii. “caring for a child, a parent, a spouse, a domestic partner, or any other individual related by blood or affinity whose close association with the employee is the equivalent of a family relationship who has any of the conditions or needs for diagnosis, care, or preventive care described in (i) or (ii) or is otherwise in need of care”; or

iv. “domestic violence, sexual assault, or stalking, if the time absent from work is for the purposes described in (i) or (ii), to obtain additional counseling, to seek relocation, to seek assistance from a victim services organization, or take related legal action, including preparation for or participation in any related civil or criminal legal proceeding, or to assist an individual related to the employee as described in (iii) in engaging in any of these activities.”

According to the DOL's press release, “For American workers whose employers do not provide paid sick leave, taking time off to go to the doctor can mean missing out on wages or running the risk of getting fired.” The DOL's Wage and Hour Division’s website includes information on the final rule such as a fact sheet, answers to frequently asked questions, a poster explaining EO 13706, and a video explaining the new rule.

The DOL had released its Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) to implement Executive Order 13706, Establishing Paid Sick Leave for Federal Contractors in February of 2016. Ogletree Deakins will cover EO 13706 and its obligations on federal contractors in depth on the Affirmative Action / OFCCP blog in the coming days.

Louisiana Medicaid to Host Electronic Health Record Vendor Fair

In an effort to help Louisiana Medicaid practitioners adopt electronic health records (EHR), the Louisiana Department of Health will host an EHR vendor and clearinghouse vendor fair Wednesday, October 26, 2016, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Room 118 of the Bienville building located at 628 North 4th Street in downtown Baton Rouge. The fair will provide an open forum for providers to learn about available EHR and clearinghouse technology, as well as the EHR Incentive Payment Program. Providers may attend any time between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The Louisiana Department of Health estimates that only 30 percent of eligible Medicaid providers have adopted certified electronic health record technology. Distinction Between Assisted Living And Skilled Care Is “Narrowing”

McKnight’s Senior Living editorializes that the distinction between nursing facilities and assisted living communities is “narrowing,” but that “fundamental differences remain” primarily funding and federal regulation. The editorial argues that assisted living is becoming increasingly “clinical” like skilled care as evidenced by the new measures added to NCAL’s LTC Trend Tracker, while many nursing facilities are adopting a “social conscience” making them more like assisted living. The editorial quotes NCAL Board Chairman Chris Mason, who said about assisted living, “What began as a social model with a medical conscience in many states is now a medical model with a social conscience.”

Education and Advocacy Key to Success Under New Quality Measures

Skilled nursing providers may have to “teach” industry stakeholders how recent changes to the Five-Star Quality Rating System have impacted their ratings in order to maintain successful network partnerships, one expert stressed earlier this month.

While 11% of the skilled nursing sector gained a star under recent methodological changes to the rating system, another 16% lost a star, said Cheryl Field, chief product officer for Prime Care Technologies, citing American Health Care Association data. Field spoke during a session at AHCA’s 67th Annual Convention & Expo in Nashville.

To stay in a referral network’s good graces, Field urged providers whose ratings shifted under the new measures to utilize education and advocacy to show hospitals, accountable care organizations and other partners how the recent changes impacted their rating — and then back it up with current data.

CMS Unveils Care Model Linking Social Needs and Healthcare

A new care model from the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services will zero in on social health-related needs such as food insecurity or unstable housing. The Accountable Health Communities Model will examine whether pinpointing and addressing these needs can help improve outcomes, reduce costs and decrease the risk of developing a chronic condition. The model may have particular interest for nursing homes accepting dual eligibles or seniors in need of financial assistance.

CMS will implement and test the model over five years, with three tracks of “varying intensity” aimed at closing a “critical gap between clinical care and community services,” the agency said. Among the tracks is a community referral approach, which link local organizations and agencies to provide care planning and follow-up for beneficiaries. Hospitals, healthcare provider practices, local governments and for- and not-for-profit health systems are eligible to apply for the test.

At the September board meeting, the LNHA Board of Directors voted to raise monies to support the employees of LNHA member nursing facilities who suffered flood damage to their homes, vehicles and personal possessions during the Great Flood of 2016 and the spring flooding in North Louisiana.

I urge facilities and associate members to participate in this effort by donating a minimum $500 which is tax deductible. Over the past month we have received less than 20% participation. I encourage every member to participate so we can make a difference in the lives of those employees who are affected by this tragic flooding.

Please make your check payable to: Louisiana Long Term Care Foundation. When mailing the check, address it to 7844 Office Park Blvd., Baton Rouge, LA, 70809, and include “Flood Relief” in the attention line.

Sincerely,
Ron Goux
LNHA Board President
